

2017-2018

Dear future AP English IV students,

We really look forward to working with you next year. It is hard to believe that summer is right around the corner. Before you know it you will be back at school for your senior year, well on your way to college and an exciting future.

The AP Language and Composition course will provide you with college level instruction in studying and writing various analytical and persuasive essays on literacy and nonliterary topics. Our area of focus will be in language, rhetoric and expository writing. As part of our curriculum, you are required to complete a researched argument project that meets the requirements set by College Board for all students enrolled in AP English Language and Composition courses; this project will be completed entirely during the semester you are enrolled in AP English IV. Since our project requirements differ significantly from those set for seminar classes, we will explain the project and begin approving topics during the first few weeks of class. Please wait for this explanation and approval from your AP Language teacher before beginning any work.

We have chosen a variety of literature selections for you to read this summer in preparation for our class. All are fairly representative of the types of literature we will be experiencing in class. Please take note of the activities we would like for you to complete as you read.

- "Close Reading of a Literary Passage" (attached) - This is an essential skill for an AP English student. Use these strategies as you annotate the columns for the columnist assignment.
- Thank You for Arguing (Jay Heinrichs) - You will read this book BEFORE completing the Summer Reading Columnist assignment. This text will serve as the foundational text for our course, so be sure to annotate (Close Read). You will apply what you have learned from the text in the Summer Reading Columnist assignment.
- Summer Reading Columnist Project - see the attached overview (Due date for second semester is Thursday, January 23, 2018)

We should have an exciting class together. Once again, we are looking forward to working with all of you. Have a wonderful summer!

AP English Language and Composition teachers
Lexington District One

Close Reading of a Literary Passage

When engaging in a close reading, you choose a specific passage and analyze it in fine detail, as if with a magnifying glass. You then comment on points of style and on your reactions as a reader. Close reading is important because it is the building block for larger analysis. Your thoughts evolve not from someone else's truth about the reading, but from your own observations. The more closely you can observe, the more original and exact your ideas will be. To begin your close reading, ask yourself several specific questions about the passage. The following questions are not a formula, but a starting point for your own thoughts. When you arrive at some answers, you are ready to organize and write. You should organize your close reading like any other kind of essay, paragraph by paragraph, but you can arrange it any way you like.

*Note: For summer reading, apply this technique to the entire novel by choosing significant passages as you read. During our class, we will continue to evaluate individual passages and entire works in this manner. Mark your novel, take notes, and reflect as you read. THESE WILL NOT BE TURNED IN FOR A GRADE, BUT INSTEAD SHOULD BE APPLIED TO ALL READING YOU DO THROUGHOUT THE SEMESTER.

I. First Impressions:

- What is the first thing you notice about the passage?
- What is the second thing?
- Do the two things you noticed complement each other? Or contradict each other?
- What mood does the passage create in you? Why?

II. Vocabulary and Diction:

- Which words do you notice first? Why? What is noteworthy about this diction?
- How do the important words relate to one another?
- Do any words seem oddly used to you? Why?
- Do any words have double meanings? Do they have extra connotations?
- Look up any unfamiliar words.

III. Discerning Patterns:

- Does an image here remind you of an image elsewhere in the book? Where? What's the connection?
- How might this image fit into the pattern of the book as a whole?
- Could this passage symbolize the entire work? Could this passage serve as a microcosm--a little picture--of what's taking place in the whole work?
- What is the sentence rhythm like? Short and choppy? Long and flowing? Does it build on itself or stay at an even pace? What is the style like?
- Look at the punctuation. Is there anything unusual about it?
- Is there any repetition within the passage? What is the effect of that repetition?

- How many types of writing are in the passage? (For example, narration, description, argument, dialogue, rhymed or alliterative poetry, etc.)
- Can you identify paradoxes in the author's thought or subject?
- What is left out or kept silent? What would you expect the author to talk about that the author avoided?

IV. Point of View and Characterization:

- How does the passage make us react or think about any characters or events within the narrative?
- Are there colors, sounds, physical description that appeals to the senses? Does this imagery form a pattern? Why might the author have chosen that color, sound or physical description?
- Who speaks in the passage? To whom does he or she speak? Does the narrator have a limited or partial point of view? Or does the narrator appear to be omniscient, and he knows things the characters couldn't possibly know? (For example, omniscient narrators might mention future historical events, events taking place "off stage," the thoughts and feelings of multiple characters, and so on).

V. Symbolism:

- Are there metaphors? What kinds?
- Is there one controlling metaphor? If not, how many different metaphors are there, and in what order do they occur? How might that be significant?
- How might objects represent something else?
- Do any of the objects, colors, animals, or plants appearing in the passage have traditional connotations or meaning? What about religious or biblical significance?
- If there are multiple symbols in the work, could we read the entire passage as having allegorical meaning beyond the literal level?

Adapted from:

Wheeler, PHD, Carson Newman College. http://web.cn.edu/kwheeler/reading_lit.html

Summer Reading Columnist Project

Your assignment is to follow a national columnist in a newspaper. You must collect five current, consecutive columns by your author. Below you will find a list of nationally syndicated columnists who would be appropriate subjects for a project of this nature. Their work is available on the internet through various newspaper web sites that can be accessed in school, the public library or at home. Archives can be searched on these sites, but many publications require payment for articles older than one or two weeks; therefore, do not put this off until the due date. The assignment has two parts: reading & annotating the columns, and writing a précis/response for each column.

- Dave Barry
- David Brooks
- Ann Coulter
- Maureen Dowd
- Thomas Friedman
- Maggie Gallagher
- Ellen Goodman
- Bob Herbert
- Garrison Keillor
- Joe Klein
- Naomi Klein
- Charles Krauthammer
- Nicholas D. Kristof
- Paul Krugman
- Peggy Noonan
- Kathleen Parker
- Leonard Pitts
- Anna Quindlen
- Thomas Sowell
- Cal Thomas
- George Will

Due date is Thursday, January 23, 2018.

Assignment

- I. Read and ANNOTATE each of your five columns. This means that you must include a copy of the column with your handwritten notations in the margins. Annotate for the following:
- Speaker's tone and possible tone shifts
 - Rhetorical strategies (You should use the information you gleaned from Thank You for Arguing to help you spot the various rhetorical strategies writers use to meet their purpose.
 - Organization and arrangement of ideas
 - Appeals to logic or emotion

Mark places in the text that evoke a reaction from you, be it laughter, anger, or confusion.

Some questions to ask yourself as you read:

- How does s/he open the column?
- How does s/he close the column?
- How soon does s/he announce the thesis?
- How does s/he organize? What are the parts or sections of the column?
- How much is based on observation? Personal experience? Interviews? Fact?
- What sort of diction characterizes the columnist?
- What sort of syntax characterized the columnist?
- What audience does s/he assume? How do you know?
- What unstated assumptions does the columnist make?

- II. After annotating, you will write a TWO paragraph response for each column.
- For paragraph one, you will write a one paragraph précis (see instructions below).
 - For paragraph two you will write a subjective response that describes your reaction to the column. This subjective response would include your thoughts on the arguments presented as well as on the rhetorical strategies and stylistic techniques you find interesting. You MUST include at least one specific reference from Thank You for Arguing; this must include a citation.

Formatting info: Both paragraphs combined should provide no more than a ONE-PAGE RESPONSE to each column. Each response must be typed, double-spaced in a 10 or 12 point font. Attach the column to the back of your typed response. You will need provide a cover page that includes your name, the name of your columnist, and lists the dates of the columns to which you have chosen to respond. (Make sure the publication date appears on each of your columns.)

Instructions for Writing a Précis Response

A rhetorical précis invites active readers to analyze an essay's content (the what) and delivery (the how). It consists of four sentences only—sentences performing different roles, adhering to different requirements—that blend summary and analysis. To do this you will need to read the column a number of times to make sure you completely understand the author's context.

Directions: When writing your one-page response, objectively summarize the column accurately in your own words using the précis format. The sentence roles are described below for you. After the précis, compose your subjective response, noting any questions, objections, or enlightenment generated by the column and/or the rhetorical strategies employed by the columnist.

Example Précis

- The FIRST SENTENCE identifies the essay's author and title, provides the article's date in parentheses, uses some form of the verb says (claims, asserts, suggests, argues, etc...) followed by that, and the essay's thesis (paraphrased or quoted).

Example: In "English 99: Literacy Among the Ruins" (2001), Frank Gannon asserts that his experiences teaching English 99, a pass/fail course designed for students not quite ready for college English classes, prove that literary ignorance pervades all social and cultural groups in American society.

- The SECOND SENTENCE describes the author's support for the thesis, the way in which the author develops the essay. This is usually in chronological order.

Example: Gannon illuminates this concern by descriptively detailing the three distinct "types" of students in his class and all of their general failures in both conceptual and grammatical writing skills.

- The THIRD SENTENCE analyzes the author's purpose using an in order to statement. (Rhetorical strategies could be discussed here – for example, exaggeration is noted in the example below.)

Example: He overly exaggerates the three groups' shortcomings in order to overtly emphasize the lack of literary skill in today's society and to showcase the frustration he felt daily.

- The FOURTH SENTENCE describes the essay's target audience and characterizes the essay's tone (the author's relationship with that audience)

Example: Gannon takes a sarcastic and humorous view while addressing society, but more specifically those concerned with the education system.

- Adapted from E. Gunnar, Conifer High School, CO

Be prepared to submit your work to Turnitin.com!

AP Summer Reading Columnist Score Sheet

Name _____

Total Score: _____/50 points

Completeness _____/25

_____ / 5 columns attached and thoroughly annotated (10 points)

_____ / Columns are all by same author (1 point)

_____ / Columns are consecutive (1 point)

_____ / Columns are current (1 point)

_____ / Columns are appropriate for AP content (3 points)

_____ / Errors in grammar & conventions are minor (4 points)

_____ / Each response supports the analysis of the column with at least one specific reference from Thank You for Arguing. Must include citation (5 points).

Understanding : 25 points

CATEGORY	5	4	3	2	1	0
Understanding	All responses (5) show considerable analysis; focus on primary text; contain significant support for / details about main points both from the column and from Thank You for Arguing ; stay on topic; are of appropriate length; and follow prescribed format.	Majority (4) of responses show some originality & inventiveness; focus on primary text; contain substantial support for / details about main points both from the column and from Thank You for Arguing ; stay on topic; are of appropriate length; and follow prescribed format..	Most (4) responses show some analysis; focus on primary text; contain support for / details about main points both from the column and from Thank You for Arguing ; stay on topic; are of appropriate length; and follow prescribed format.	Some (3) responses show an attempt at originality; refer to the primary text; attempt support for / details about main points from the column and from Thank You for Arguing ; stay on topic; and follow prescribed format.	Few (2-1) responses show an attempt at originality; refer to the primary text; attempt support for / details about main points from the column only; stay on topic; and follow prescribed format.	Not submitted

5 = 25 pts.

4 = 22 pts.

3 = 20 pts.

2 = 18.5 pts.

1 = 17 pts.

Completeness score _____ + Understanding score _____ = _____/50

Comments: