Dear

I am writing to thank you for sending your student [redacted] to The Citadel Honors Program this fall and to congratulate you and your school for the wonderful job you have done educating him.

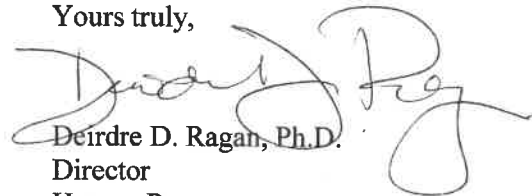

[redacted] is doing an excellent job at The Citadel and represents your institution well. To begin with, he works hard, something Lexington High School can take some of the credit for. With a rigorous curriculum taught by faculty who uphold high standards, you helped him learn the satisfactions of a job well done. Through his intelligence, attitude, and effort, [redacted] contributes positively to the challenging learning environment of our Honors Program, which helps to make the experience a special one for all our students.

[redacted] expresses his gratitude in his own words:

"I would like to thank you for being a great history teacher for myself and all of my other classmates. Teaching an IB course is not an easy thing to do, yet I think you did it well. In your class, I learned a style of thinking that I had never really been exposed to before. Rather than just accepting information as fact, I learned to be more critical of information. This is an extremely helpful way of thinking that has definitely prepared me for college; I am expected to use it in all of my classes. Moreover, I even somehow managed to escape IB with a 5 in history, which could not have been done without you."

Thank you again for sending [redacted] to The Citadel Honors Program. Please pass along my thanks, too, to those most instrumental in his education. You are doing a terrific job, and I just wanted you to know that it's not going unnoticed or unappreciated.

Yours truly,

Deirdre D. Ragan, Ph.D.
